Romance: Just a Client (Millionaire Office Romance) (Contemporary Workplace Romance Short Stories) C.J Starkey

It was supposed to be a hot one-night fling...

Cynthia:
So, Andrew Lewis thinks he can just stroll in here and make me break my own moral code?
Forget him.
It isn't like I'm going to fall for that smile, or those kind eyes.
Especially from a guy who literally has the worst taste in pickup lines.
Trouble is, he's my company's client, and he just handpicked me to work on his project.
Which, while flattering, shouldn't be an excuse to take me out to lunch.
Especially to my favorite place.
But that doesn't mean I'm warming up to him.
Even if we did have a one-night stand last night.

Andrew:
She's something different, I'll give her that.
I never expected such a lovely vision to be such a spitfire.
Or my favorite advertising copywriter, for that matter.
But Cynthia, like I said, isn't normal.
And if that means I have to look up some corny lines to make her laugh, well.
Let's just say I've done worse.
