Excerpt from Three Years in Arkansaw: Carrot Books U Ever Saw

I am no scholar or society dude So you must excuse my Plain Arkansawyan language for that is all I know.

I lived in Arkansaw so long that I have forgot where the dead line is between decency and vulgarity, but I have used no language that an Arkansaw Simday school teacher would not use.

I was raised on a farm in the back woods of Pike County, Indeane and never went to school only a little in the fall after the farm work was dun.

In '79 I went to Custer Co., Neb., farmed, five years then moved to Sheridan Co., raised cattle and run a hotel, moved to Box Butte Co., built the first house in Aliance moved to Rock Springs, Wyoming in '89, went to Guthrie, Oklahoma, worked at carpenter work, run a hotel and second hand store and la wed Kansas Sooners and Political thieves for six years. Then got disgusted with what they called civilization and moved to the mountains of South West Arkansaw and rote this book called "Three Years in Arkansaw."

I have worked at nearly all kind of trades, been in all kind of business except saloon and Banking business.

Never was a Railroad conductor but have pulled the bell cord over a mules tail across a cornfield a many a hot day.
